Leib's Book.—In Capt. Chas. Leib's Book, Nine Months in the Quartermaster's Department, we find a paragraph about Mary Jane Green, with a portion of whose history many of our readers are familiar. Among the prisoners sent to Clarkburg, was a young girl, seventeen, named Mary Jane Green. She resided in Braxton County, and, for a long time, was engaged in carrying a mail between Sutton, the county seat of that county, and the rebel camp on the Gauley. She was illiterate, perfectly fearless, and cordially hated the "Yankee vagabonds," as she termed the Federal troops. She was noted for her profanity, and when, with the rest of her family, she was arrested, cursed and swore like a professional blackleg, or horse-racer, declaring she would have the hearts blood of every "Lincoln pup" in Western Virginia. The real cause of the war, and the effect of secession, having been explained to her brother, he expressed a desire to be permitted to take the oath of allegiance, but that he had been misled. Mary Jane then forgot all sisterly affection, she possessed, and as a coward, and swore that he might take the oath, but that they could not make a deal of abolitionist of her. When on her way to Clarkburg, in charge of Lieutenant George E. O'Neil, her language was such, he desisted, as to almost disgust him with the sex. While confined in prison, she abused passers-by; shouted lustily for Jeff. Davis and the Southern Confederacy, and swore she would have the heart of Gen. Rosecrans, if he were ever released. Kindness did not move her. The secession was thrown away upon her. The secession ladies, who are refined and intelligent, deeply sympathized with her, but permitted the Federal officers to provide her with decent apparel, which she accepted, although coming from those whom she regarded as her persecutors. The people residing in the neighborhood of the jail felt relieved when she was sent to Wheeling. Arriving there, she was taken to the principal hotel, and treated with the greatest kindness; was neatly clad, and on promising that she would try to do better, was released, and a home obtained for her in a respectable family; but falling in with some secession friends, she became as bad as ever.

Mary Jane went back to Braxton but could not possibly behave herself. She attempted to destroy the telegraph wire erected by the Federal authorities and was brought back to this city, only a few days ago and confined in jail, where she now remains. She assaulted one of the soldiers who had her in charge, striking him in the breast with a brick.

Not in the Front.—For the information of anxious friends, we are authorized to state that the First Virginia Infantry was not in the late fight, which took place between Fremont and Jackson, an account of which appears in our telegraph columns. It is known that it was the intention to halt Shields' division, of which the First forms a part, in the neighborhood of Winchester or Strasburg, for two or three weeks, and not move them within that time, unless there was urgent necessity for it. The whole division was worn down by long marching, and sadly in need of clothing and equipments of almost every kind. The design was to allow them time to rest, procure clothing and equipments, and be paid off at one of the points mentioned.

Besides Fremont's army, there is a vast force of fresh troops in the valley, and we do not believe that any portion of Shields' division is at present in the front.

Arrest and Escape of an Alleged Swindler.—Some time ago a Mrs. Kennel, living on Market street, made complaint before Ald. McCourtney, charging J. W. Wheat and Lee Harris with taking from her house twenty dollars in Treasury notes, and making away with the same. On Tuesday evening officer James St. Myers encountered Wheat on the street and arrested him. He was taken to the office of Ald. McCourtney, and after remaining there a short time stepped out of the door and disappeared, and has not been heard of since. Wheat denied taking the money as charged by Mrs. Kennel. He and Harris and Mrs. Kennel had some sort of a game of cards, and all the money taken from the house was won in that way.

Roadway Accident.—A MAX KILL. ED.—On Monday last, two horses attached to a wagon loaded with lumber, ran away on Boggs' Run, a few miles from this city. The driver, a German, whose name we could not learn, clung to the frightened horses for a considerable time, but was finally thrown out upon the ground, when a piece of the timber struck him upon the breast, producing lacerations from which he died shortly afterwards.

Eclipse of the Moon.—A total eclipse of the moon was advertised to take place last night. We didn't see it, but we are authorized to state that the duration of the whole eclipse was three hours and seventeen minutes, and during sixty-two minutes the moon was wholly immersed in the shadow of the earth. The eclipse began about midnight, and ended about 4 o'clock this morning.

Pratt Hays and Silcott.—These two notorious guerrillas, who have been marauding throughout Calhoun and adjoining counties for the last year, were brought to the city yesterday, in charge of Capt. Bagges. They came into our camp under the armistice granted by Col. Rathbone, and in view of that fact, it is not yet determined what will be done with them.

Drowned.—A little news boy named Ben Blair, was drowned in the Ohio River, at Steubenville, last Tuesday evening.

A FINE LOT OF HORSES.—We have had occasion once or twice to speak of the mass looking horses flocking to the Government stables, but yesterday we saw at Captain Downing's stables as fine a lot of horses as can be brought together in this part of the country. These horses were purchased by Mr. T. H. Davis in Muskogum, Licking and Guernsey counties Ohio. There is no doubt among horse men but that horses such as these are much cheaper than the geometrical style of animals which we have before alluded to.

There were about eight feet water in the channel of the Ohio yesterday, and rising. The steamer Boston left last evening for Cincinnati. The Woodside and Altamont appear to be lying in wait for something to turn up. The Silver Wave, with a new coating of white paint, was at the landing. The packets between this and other points are all making regular trips.

KILLED.—Arnold (Zig) Clark (colored) employed on the Cadiz arm of the Steubenville & Indiana Railroad, was accidentally thrown from the train on Saturday last, and instantly killed.

GREAT RUSH FOR CAPT. LEIB'S BOOK.—Nine Months in the Quartermaster's Department.—Our supply is exhausted, but will have another lot to-day at noon.—Price 50 cts., or 58 cts. by mail. R. O. Graves & Co., 78 Market street, agent for the city.

WASHINGTON HALL.—Mr. R. FRAZER and Mrs. THOMAS, the noted Mentalists, will demonstrate the existence of certain principles in nature, THURSDAY NIGHT, the 13th inst., by moving a piece of wood without material connection, according to the unexpressed wish of any one in the audience, and telling them what they are thinking about, also instantly conjuring the faculty of strength in any person by mental exertion commonly called "charming," &c. For particulars see programmes.
